PhD Research Conference Travel - Stipend Application

The Daniel J. Epstein Institute offers a Research Conference Travel Stipend, up to $1,500 per academic year, to Industrial Systems & Engineering PhD students who will be presenting at a Domestic Research Conference. PhD students can apply each academic year (August 16th through August 15th the following year) for this stipend. The stipend will cover transportation to the conference, conference fees, lodging and per diem meals ($46 per day). The total reimbursement cannot exceed $1,500 for the academic year. However, you can submit multiple requests within a year as long as the total for the academic year does not exceed $1,500 (for example, 3 conferences at $500 each is acceptable). Please submit this application to Shelly Lewis (lewism1@usc.edu).
